

A Job Like Yours

Anis exemplifies how time, opportunity, and support can build a “good life.”

When Anis came to MVLE he was anxious to get back to work, but was also worried that he might not succeed.

Previous employment attempts had been rocky and he'd been let go by his latest employer.

With the assistance of his team at MVLE, a plan of supports was developed to help him overcome some of his previous challenges and work towards reaching his goal of working independently.

Initially employed as a Kitchen Utility worker in a group supported site, over the course of a year Anis demonstrated his ability to work independently with the right supports.

He advocated for himself, and with the help of his MVLE team, found a competitive job at Wal-Mart as a Cart Attendant.

Anis has been successfully employed at Wal-Mart for over a year and is able to contribute not just to his financial independence, but to his family as well.
